President Must Make Decision On Third Term Within Fifteen Days

JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Paraphrasing an old American shopping slogan, President Roosevelt today has "only 15 days until" he must declare whether he will run for a third term.

Mr. Roosevelt faces his fateful decision with his foreign policy on trial, his latest cabinet appointments opposed, and with threats of a third party growing.

Fifteen short days from now the Democratic national convention will assemble at Chicago and probably nominate Mr. Roosevelt for a third term—if he wants it—on the first ballot.

At Hyde Park for Fourth

The President plans to go to Hyde Park, N. Y., for the coming Fourth of July week-end. The White House already has revealed that there will be a "good story" developing from his visit there. It may be the long-awaited third-term announcement.

However, persons close to the New Deal do not expect Mr. Roosevelt to speak out on the third term

Defense Taxes Now In Effect

New Tax Law To Aid Defense Fund Becomes Effective Today

"LUXURY ITEMS" HIT BY BOOST

The taxpayers' five-year "penny march" to pay for the $5,000,000,000 national defense program began here and all over the nation today at cigaret counters, cafes, theater boxoffices, gas stations, night clubs and other places—for today Uncle Sam boosted the taxes on all those things he calls "luxury items."

Motorists heard about it when they drove into stations to "fill'er up." And wherever the federal government has applied its new taxes, the rise in cost was felt.

The whole thing comes about because the United States intends to arm itself to the point where none of the European troublemakers will even dare to think about looking this way. The five-billion dollar order will provide fast fighting planes, battleships, tanks and all other necessities to keep democracy as America knows it.

Theater admissions over 20 cents will be taxed one cent on every dime. The present tax affects only amusements over 40 cents. All the taxes are in effect for a five-year period.

Liquor taxes will be heavy, dealers say. Floor taxes are also in effect on all unsold liquor, cigaret and fuel stock dealers have on hand.

U. S. Fleet Returns To Hawaiian Waters

(International News Service)

HONOLULU, July 1 — With the same unexpectedness that shrouded its departure a week ago the United States fleet returned to Hawaiian waters today.

The secret sailing of the great Armada was explained by Admiral James O. Richardson, commander-in-chief as routine training work simulating emergency sailing without previous notification.

Various rumors had been rife in Honolulu regarding whereabout of the fighting craft, including one report that the ships were speeding toward the Panama Canal to take up stations in the Atlantic and another that they had gone toward the Philippines and other Asiatic points.

The first contingent of 40 ships, which included submarines, a plane carrier, destroyers, cruisers and battleships, dropped anchor Sunday morning in Lahaina Roads, the navy's anchorage off the Island of Maui which is about 200 miles from the Island of Oahu, the site of Honolulu and the great Pearl Harbor naval base.

Additional vessels of the fleet arrived throughout the day and night.

It was generally believed that the fleet would refuel at Lahaina Roads and then resume stations later, although there was no official conformation.

Building & Loans Are Merged Today

New Castle Mutual Absorbs Equitable, Becomes Federal Association

NOW 'FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN'

Savings and loan history was made in New Castle today when the New Castle Mutual Building & Loan Association surrendered its state charter and began operation as the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of New Castle.

The New Castle Mutual was the oldest and largest thrift and home-financing institution in Lawrence county, the history of the association dating back to the days when the population of New Castle was 15,000.

A group of able, far-seeking public spirited citizens sensed the growth of this community and realized it would be necessary to have some kind of an institution where homes could be financed and thrift fostered.

Past Record Splendid.

How well they accomplished their purpose is attested to by the fact that approximately one out of every five homes in New Castle has been financed by New Castle Mutual, and the savers and investors in the association have received well over $1,000,000 in dividends.

It has been the policy of the management to adopt new, modern methods which are for the benefit of members of the institution. The association was one of the first in Pennsylvania to secure membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System. Soon after passage of the act providing insurance for savings and loan investors, the management of the association availed themselves of the opportunity. Today the conversion to First Federal Savings &

Plan Action To Halt Nazi Move

Western Hemisphere Defense Program Will Be Spurred At Parley

WALLACE REPLIES TO GERMAN WARNING

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The U. S. government, spurred by ever-increasing reports of intensified Nazi efforts to undermine Latin-American democratic regimes, today undertook an aggressive drive to "halt Hitler" in the Western Hemisphere

Secretary of State Hull is expected to use every means at his command to secure, at the coming Pan-American conference at Panama, a strong hemisphere defense program as well as coordinated efforts to combat Italo-German subversive movements south of the Rio Grande. Both subjects are on the conference agenda, announced Saturday.

Prepare Agenda

Final action on the agenda, adopted in tentative form by the Pan-American Union Governing board, will be taken at another meeting Friday. By that time the diplomatic representatives of the 20 other Pan-American nations will have consulted their home governments on the agenda and will be in a position to approve or amend it.

As the agenda was based largely on suggestions received from the various Latin-American capitals, little debate is expected over approval in approximately its present form.

Meanwhile, an administration spokesman, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, last night gave prompt and vigorous answer to a German warning to the United States against anti-German measures in Latin-America.

The warning, contained in the German publication, "Berlin-Rome-Tokyo," and reportedly approved by Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, advised the Latin-American countries not to "senselessly endanger" their economies by forming an economic bloc inimical to German trade. The article was construed as an effort to block the administration's plan for a Pan-American economic cartel to control exports from this hemisphere.

No Appeasement

Even though Hitler may become master of Europe, Wallace said, the United States has "turned its back" on any policy of appeasement. In-

Fear Many Dead In Texas Flood

Estimates Range From 5 To 12 As Result Of Flood From Heavy Rainfall

(International News Service)

HALLETTSVILLE, Texas, July 1.—From five to 12 persons were feared today to have been drowned by a flood of the Lavaca river near Hallettsville in the wake of heavy rains over the week end. Three bodies had been recovered this morning.

State police and members of rescue parties reported many persons had been driven to tree tops and the roofs of buildings by the flood waters, which burst the banks of the Lavaca river near Hallettsville and the Colorado river near Smithville, 50 miles northwest.

At least 300 homes were believed to have been damaged.

At Smithville, 16 inches of rain fell in less than 15 hours, and the Colorado rose to a head of 20 feet there. At La Grange, 20 miles down-stream from Smithville, a 47-foot crest was reached.

The rivers were receding today, and although a number of bridges were damaged, highway travel was expected to be resumed within a few hours.

The islands, lying close to the French coast, were evacuated by all but 3,000 of their inhabitants last week, and while the strategic importance of the islands is slight, actual capture of English soil made fine material for home-consumption propaganda in the Reich.

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, July 1.—A German drive to depose King Haakon VII of Norway and the government of Premier Johann Nygaardsvold in favor of a regime friendly to the Reich was reported in advices from Norway today.

German Administrator Joseph Terboven was said to have informed the Norwegian administrative council that Berlin wants the Norwegian parliament to meet and depose the monarch.

In addition, the reports stated, Terboven demanded that parliament oust all members who fled from Norway with Haakon and the cabinet following the German invasion.

It was understood the Norwegians requested that Haakon be given an opportunity to abdicate and that Terboven agreed to wait.

The reports also said a Norwegian committee for re-establishment of overseas trade has received permission to arrange for shipment of goods to the United States if the British government will guarantee safe passage through the blockade.

Willkie Will Plan Slam-Bang Campaign

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 1.—Wendell L. Willkie came back today to the scenes of his business triumphs, the towering skyscrapers of downtown New York, to fit himself through divestiture of his business interests for the slam-bang political campaign that lies ahead.

Relaxed and refreshed after a week-end yachting cruise from the Republican national convention at Philadelphia, the 1940 G. O. P. presidential nominee waved cheerily to reporters as he stepped ashore at the world's fair yacht basin after a leisurely breakfast.

One of his main objects during his New York stay was to resign the presidency of Commonwealth & Southern corporation, possibly to be accomplished during the day. Thereafter he was expected to concentrate on campaign strategy aimed at ousting the New Deal from control of the White House and of congress.

Willkie was accompanied by his family, Mrs. Edith Willkie and the couple's son, Phillip. He was in high spirits. His exuberance was evident when landing time came. He ignored the gangplank that had been run out to the yacht's deck and boyishly grasped the pier with both hands to hoist himself ashore unaided.

Immediately thereafter Willkie was sped by automobile to his home in New York City where he had on today's schedule a press conference at his power company offices. There was no doubt of his earnestness in resigning the presidency of the giant utility he now heads.

"If I can get the board of directors together," he said, "I'll take the matter up with them today."

Bombs Dropped By Nazi Planes

Several Of Raiding Planes Are Shot Down, London Report Says

BRITISH BOMB GERMAN POINTS

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 1.—German war planes again ranged over England, Scotland and Wales during the night, dropping explosive and incendiary bombs, but failing to cause serious damage or casualties, according to an official announcement.

A German bomber crashed into the seas off the northeast coast during the night. Its crew of four was rescued. One German airman was wounded and sent to a hospital.

The Air Ministry stated British planes intercepted and shot down an enemy float plane off the northeast coast during the morning. The crew was rescued.

At the same time it was believed that still another German raiding bomber was brought down by gunfire in northeastern England shortly before noon.

Bombs Are Dropped

Authorities said bombs were dropped on eastern and western England, Wales and eastern Scotland. One town in eastern Scotland was attacked with incendiary bombs, it was announced, and a school was destroyed and one person slightly injured.

The air ministry communique on the raids stated:

"Enemy aircraft crossed the coast at several points during the night. Anti-aircraft batteries went into action."

It was reported that a great number of British pursuit planes which ascended over northeastern England diverted an attack from that area. Flashes were seen in the sky over Wales as the raiders penetrated that region.

On Saturday, according to an air ministry communique, British planes bombed the German-occupied airdrome at Abbeville, France, and other military objectives in Germany, Belgium, Holland and northeastern France. Three British planes were missing after these attacks.

Yesterday, the statement said, British planes bombed the Merville airdrome and set fire to railway sidings and freight yards at Vignacourt.

Three British planes failed to return, but five German planes were shot down over the French coast, the air ministry said.

stead, he added, this country will build up military and economic power to compel Der Fuehrer's "fear and respect."

The secretary charged that German economic policy in Latin-America was to "divide and rule" by playing one nation against another, offering favors and then threatening later to withdraw them if the recipient refused to obey Hitler's orders.

"Those who supported Hitler would get the business," Wallace said. "Those who refused would probably find their export market closed. Thus, Hitler might easily dominate both North and South America."

The way to checkmate Hitler, Wallace said, is through inter-American economic cooperation through joint marketing of the products of the western world

"We, in the new world," he added, "have economic power. We have gold. The hour has come to use them in a positive way."

RUSSIAN TROOPS PRESS FORWARD INTO RUMANIA

pleted mobilization of 2,000,000 men.

(An official British radio broadcast picked up in New York by the Columbia Broadcasting system said the Rumanian navy has mined the ports of Constanza and Solina.)

A Rumanian miltary communique said a "number of incidents" broke out in Bessarabia and northern Bukovina, adding:

"These incidents were due to the fact that advanced elements of the Soviet troops moved in certain directions more rapidly than had been foreseen originally."

Except for these clashes the evacuation of Rumanian troops was said to be progressing "according to plan" and is scheduled for completion on Wednesday, July 3.

(A Moscow dispatch to the German news agency DNB said the Russians had completed occupation of northern Bukovina and were still advancing "without incident" in Bessarabia today the Pruth and Danube rivers. Ungheni, Cagul and Reni were occupied by both motorized and parachute troops, according to this report.

(A dispatch from Budapest said "terrible scenes" occurred in the ceded regions and that refugees sacked many villages in frantic efforts to obtain food. Massacres and fires broke out in some districts, the dispatch stated. Refugees were reported dying of hunger, exposure and exhaustion along the packed roads.

Heavy Casualties

Details of the fighting between Russian and Rumania forces were not disclosed but it was reported each side sustained many casualties in dead and wounded.

The fate of General Florescu, who spurned Bucharest's withdrawal order and led his troops against the Russians at the Pruth was in doubt. Some advices said he had been captured and his forces dispersed by the Red army.

Swarms of Russian parachutists occupied key towns. Baby tanks, suspended between the wheels of big transport planes, also were landed to participate in the occupation.

Mechanized Soviet troops moved forward at some spots faster than stipulated in the Moscow-Bucharest agreement, and this led to most of the fighting. At some points the fast-moving Russians fell back, however, when they learned of their "mistake."

King Carol summoned parliament into emergency session Wednesday to hear a report on the capitulation to the Russian ultimatum and also upon Rumanian mobilization for defense against further encroachments from other directions.

Mobilization of 2,000,000 Rumanian soldiers was carred out despte traffic handicaps caused by the flood of refugees, hundreds of thousands of them, pouring from the ceded areas.

PRESIDENT MUST MAKE DECISION ON THIRD TERM

this week-end. And so the convention will be only nine days off with the President's intentions as much a mystery as when the "palace guard" of the New Deal launched the third term boom a year ago.

Selection of a national Republican ticket of Willkie and McNary at Philadelphia last week increased demands from this "palace guard"—led by Secretary of the Interior Ickes—for a third term for the President.

Two Brands of Speculation

There are two brands of speculation on when Mr. Roosevelt will divulge his intentions. Some observers believe that he will speak at least a few days before the convention—if he is not going to run again—in order to allow other candidates to muster their forces.

Others believed that the President will not speak until the convention at Chicago actually starts balloting.

Meanwhile, with Congress reconvening at Washington, the President's foreign policy faced a test. The test was to come over his nomination of Republicans Henry L. Stimson as Secretary of War and Frank Knox as Secretary of the Navy.

Test Is Coming

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) Montana, leader of the successful fight against the President's supreme court enlargement plan, announced at Chicago last night that he would oppose confirmation of Stimson and Knox.

Wheeler also voiced the latest threat of a third party. He declared that "a new and great anti-war party will arise to challenge both old parties" unless the Democrats at Chicago adopt a flat anti-war foreign plank in their platform.

Wheeler declared that the Democrats must pledge that "no drop of blood of an American youth shall be spilled on a foreign shore." The words were familiar. As a matter of fact, they were exactly the words used by Labor Leader John L. Lewis in threatening recently to form a third party. Democrats fear a third party because it would take a great part of the liberal, labor and negro vote from them.

The islands lie less than 10 miles off the French coast. Their evacuation by the British last week was regarded as admission that they now lie well within the German sphere of influence.

BUILDING & LOANS ARE MERGED TODAY

Loan Association of New Castle represents another step in a forward-looking program.

Federal savings and loan associations were created by an act of Congress in 1933. The First Federal charter is No. 1653, which is the number of new and converted associations today.

Savers and investors are attracted to the federal associations because of their simplicity of operation and their definite quarantee against loss, for each individual account in a federal association is insured up to $5,000 by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance corporation.

Borrowers in First Federal will find loan plans particularly attractive, for it is a requirement that all loans must be on a monthly interest-reduction basis. The borrower pays interest only on his monthly balance

Equitable Is Acquired

As a part of the program to better and more economically serve the thrift and home-financing needs of the community, assets and liabilities of the Equitable Building & Loan Association, 33 North Mercer street, now are the property of and are merged with First Federal. The Equitable association carried total assets of approximately $300,000 which, when added to those of the New Castle Mutual, makes the total assets of the First Federal approximately $1,800,000.

Under consideration for a year, the merger proposal was submitted by the two boards to shareholders of both the organizations June 4. The approval action set July 1 for the formal union.

Commenting today on the merger, Norman E. Clark, executive vice president of First Federal, said: "The officers and directors and staff of this association are dedicating themselves anew to carry forward the policy of conservative management laid down by the founders of the association and to further promote thrift and home-financing in this community, for we very definitely believe that there is no greater social service than to promote prosperity and happiness by thrift and to bring to an increasing number of persons each year the privilege of home-ownership."

Officers and director of First Federal are: Sam H. McGoun, president; Andrew Reider, vice-president; Norman E. Clark, executive vice-president and secretary; Carl E. Paisley, treasurer; Robert C. Houk, asistant secretary; Roy W. Hazen, solicitor; Ralph A. Cooper, assistant solocitor.

Directors are: Sam H. McGoun, Andrew Reider, Norman Ehrlich, Carl E. Paisley, Joseph C. Williams, Harry L. Elder, George W. Hamilton, Clyde N. Lockhart, Wallace J. Ewing and Norman E. Clark.

FAITH

It seems that Germany is teaching United States something at the present time. Our government thought that we had to buy goods from all of the foreign countries and especially Germany, or we could not get along.

We are finding out and going to find out that everything we bought in the foreign countries, while our working men lived on dole, could have been made in this country and kept everybody working, if our Government had seen fit to make it so.

Sometimes lessons are dearly learned, but this lesson may be of benefit to United States in the future.

NO MORE PEDESTALS?

THE voices of the women will be raised with those of the men in the coming campaign. Not that the ladies have succumbed to the charms of photogenic candidates; it's just twenty-two words that appeared rather unexpectedly in the Republican platform, to wit:

"We favor submission by congress to the states of an amendment to the constitution providing for equal rights for men and women."

Nothing could be briefer—except, perhaps, the plank promising a square deal to Indians, which has one word less, only the words are bigger—and yet nothing could be more comprehensive. The Nineteenth Amendment simply states that the right of citizens to vote could not be denied or abridged on account of sex; but the whole field of women's rights, exclusive of the vote, was left wide open.

In plunking for equal rights, without reservation, the GOP platform drafters went beyond anything that either advocates or opponents expected. In fact, both sides were caught napping. If such an amendment were ratified, the relation of women to the business, social and legal aspects of life in the United States would undergo a radical change.

The plank not only wipes out the so-called "protection" of the weaker sex but recognizes the right of women for equal opportunities in employment, equal rights under the law and a host of other perquisites which only time will reveal.

One of the most unyielding opponents of this levelling process has been the National League of Women Voters, a large group of women who have taken more than a casual interest in public affairs and who now find that this preoccupation at the convention diverted them from thoughts of such a plank in the platform of the Grand Old Party.

For the most part, this is a woman's battle; and until man sees how the land lies he will content himself with sitting on the sidelines, cheering impartially.

Perhaps during the campaign the issue will be reduced to more specific terms. Then it may be possible to discover just maw many women want to step down from their pedestals and what the result would be if they did.

GUARDING AGAINST WAR-BORN DISEASE

Ten months of war in Europe have produced a portentous list of dead and wounded. Millions of soldiers remain pent up in prison camps. Cities have been destroyed; once productive countrysides laid waste.

These conditions create world-wide problems, not confined by any means to the question of immediate relief. They contain already, on a vast scale, the foundation of that inevitable grim follower after armies, disease. The world had bitter experience of that in 1918, when the "Flu" epidemic swept from the battle areas of Europe to remote countries, including our own.

We are forewarned by that experience and it is encouraging to learn that the government is preparing to combat such a menace. The danger of some serious advance of war-born disease is not imminent, but it is the part of wisdom to prepare for it. It is confidently to be hoped that the splendidly trained and equipped medical profession of the United States will be able to devise means to protect the American people from any such attack.

FREE ENTERPRISE NEEDED

In giving voice to the belief that American industry will meet the challenge placed upon it by the troubled world situation, Robert T. Bowman, president of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, made a strong plea for release of private enterprise from the restraining tentacles of excessive bureaucracy.

"We may depend upon the leadership of American private enterprise at this time of grave emergency," he said. "But since we have now found how dependent we are upon business and industry, is it not time to give private interprise the green light and permit it to function without political interference and meddling?"

That is the crux of the present problem of the relations between government and business. The hope of the nation is dependent upon untrammeled functioning of the productive mechanism.

America's inventive genius and manufacturing prowess cannot be fully asserted unless freed from the strangling influences of bureaucratic intrusion.

ALREADY EXONERATED

The resolution which Representative McCormick of Massachusetts has introduced in congress to exonerate the late Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, chief of the United States Air Force in France in 1918, of charges against him in 1925, represents a thoughtful and appropriate gesture, but one that is not necessary. General Mitchell has long since been exonerated by the course of events.

General Mitchell's fate was that which has overtaken many men of practical vision. Returning from France, he became a crusader for a greater recognition of the place which aviation should take in national preparedness. He was outspoken and persistent. He disregarded warnings from his superiors to keep silent and finally he was tried by court-martial and convicted for acts "harmful to the morale of the Army." He was suspended and later resigned.

But of course he was right. His prophetic vision saw with amazing accuracy the character that the war of the future was to assume, and if his views and his counsel had been accepted this country now would have no cause for concern as to its ability to offer an effective defense against possible aggression.

Those who think their troubles are enough to drive a person daffy should consider the case of the nation's poets, sitting up until the gray of the morn, trying to think of a word to rhyme with "war" that hasn't been used approximately 900,000 times.

When we were a boy mental arithmetic was a comparatively easy subject. But not now when the New Dealers deal exclusively in billions.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SAFETY FIRST BEGINS AT HOME

Are you or grandma, the children or others of your household going to number among the 40,000 persons now alive who will be killed at home during the next 12 months—killed by accident Will you or yours be one of the 170,000 permanently disabled, or one of the 5,500,000 temporarily crippled in this same span of time, by accident?

Maybe you say to yourself, it won't happen to me. You and I can be a little more sure that we and our household will keep alive and whole if we give some thought and care to home safety.

Floor, Stairs, Bath

Most home accidents occur from falls and burns. Polished floors are slippery unless when waxed they are rubbed down to a hard, dry finish. And those scatter rugs! Why put these perils at the head or foot of the stairs? They can be made safe elsewhere if anchored to the floor with non-skid materials to be had at any good house furnishing place.

To make life safer on your stairs, have good strong railings one can grasp; also on porch and cellar stairs. Have railings, too, that you can grasp to help you enter and leave the bathtub securely; and to stand without slipping at the shower. Non-skid mats might also help.

When you must climb, don't use a chair or box; get a stepladder and be sure its legs are locked.

Beware Burns

Fat on the fire is not to be fooled with. Use a deep kettle and let the contents cool before straining it. And you know what happens when some drops of water fall into the frying fat. Look out for your hands, eyes and face! Be sure the baby isn't near.

And don't try to fight fat or oil fire with water. Sprinkle on a handful of salt, use a fire extinguisher, or call the fire department.

Keep the matches beyond the young child's reach. Train him not to touch matches. Spank him every time he does, and make it hurt. In like manner, train him not to reach for things above him in the kitchen. Also train yourself not to leave hot liquid on the floor or in containers with handles extending beyond the edge of the stove or table.

Outside with Cleaning

Don't dry-clean in the house. Not wishing to electrocute yourself in the bathroom, don't use a curling iron and the like there. Be sure the button for turning on and off the light is solid against the wall—no chains or cords.

Keep all poisons such as iodine, rat exterminators, insect powder and cleaning fluids out of the young child's reach; preferably out of the bathroom. All poisons should be in containers different from all things else, or with pins in corks or strings about tops.

Having trained your child effectively in the unambiguous meaning of NO, make clear to him the things he must never touch. Such training should help keep him alive, for his nervous system, properly trained, is more dependable than that of an adult.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A BRAGGART BUT GAME

Few New Castleites saw Jerome "Dizzy" Dean in action when his then strong right arm played hob with opposing batsmen, but thousands of baseball fans and thousands of citizens all over the nation, who ordinarily pay little attention to baseball, must have felt a pang at the news that the most colorful pitcher since "Rube" Waddell has passed from the major league limelight into the obscurity of the minor leagues—probably forever.

It was only two years ago that Chicago paid $185,000.00 in cash and several players for Dean. Now, no major league team met the waiver price of $7500.00 for him. The whiplash right arm which in "Dizzy's" words, "fogged the high hard one past 'em", has lost its cunning.

"Dizzy" Dean was a braggart—for publicity purposes. His antics were a nightmare to managers. But he never quit. In his pitiable efforts to come back wtih a sore arm, when every throw was agony to him, he showed such raw courage, that bitterest rivals were pulling for the comeback that was not to be. He was eccentric and spoiled, but a fighter and a sportsman.

It was just so with "Rube" Waddell. There never was a baseball pitcher in the United States that could throw so fast a ball as this same "Rube". New Castle people will probably remember him when he pitched for the Volant Baseball Team, from which he was seized by "Connie" Mack and put into the line-up with the Philadelphia Athletics.

No baseball fan will forget the antics of "Rube". If a circus came to town, you might find "Rube" riding on an elephant or driving the lions' cage and "Rube" might pursue that circus for a week irrespective of his engagement, but when he was in the box, the opposing batsmen had little opportunity to make home runs, let alone base hits. As one great batsman once said concerning "Rube's" pitching. "I saw him line up. I saw nothing else. I only heard the thud of the ball from the catcher's glove!"

The passing of "Dizzy", as the passing of "Rube", has caused a great loss to baseball and a sorrow to the hero-worshipping kids of all States of this Nation.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Ordering from a menu is a serious matter for most of us——one that often requires deep concentration. Therefore, hotels, cafes, tearooms and such should instruct head-waiters, hostesses, and waiters to refrain from suggesting to guests the day's card. Even one who is not generally resentful of advice or sensitive to interruption is likely to be confused by an employee leaning over him to suggest that he order the lobster when he is particularly allergic to shellfish that he select the strawberries when they always throw him into hives or that he choose the steak smothered in onions when he is on his way to spend a cuddly evening with his best beloved. Moreover, such over-attention smacks rather strongly of strong arm salesmanship, leaving the customer to suspect that the recommended items have gone begging and must be got off the hands of the chef before they grow stale.

Reader's Questions Answered

Question: I am escorting a girl to a dance where there will be girls whom I know and with whom I should like to dance. Please tell me my obligations.

A. F.

Answer: You must dance first with the girl whom you escort and you and she should arrange for the last dance. Those intervening may be disposed of as you and she she wish, but you must see to it that she is booked for every dance and not left stranded at any time. Your first duty is to her. You might arrange with some of your friends to exchange dances, but do not put her in the position that you are trying to get rid of her.

Question: Which is correct—lunch or luncheon—R. S.

Answer: Either. Lunch is more general and therefore preferable.

Question: Must the bride's dresses be exactly alike in a double wedding?—B. B.

Answer: They need not be from the exact same model but they should be alike as to length and type. This applies also to their veils.

What's What At A Glance

Senator Wheeler More Formidable
Is Roosevelt's Leading Opponent
Montana Senator Noted For Honesty

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Burton K. Wheeler, Montana's senator, unquestionably is President Roosevelt's most formidable opponent in public life today.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri is pretty good. He has plenty of fire, but it requires a little kindling to get it going. The Montana solon simply explodes. And when he does that explosion scatters fragments all around.

Champ is a more finished orator than Burt is. The latter doesn't depend much on elocution. He's devastating less on account of the way in which he says things than by virtue of the things he says.

Of course, there are Republicans who are emphatically as anti-Roosevelt as either Burt or Champ. However, they're somewhat discounted by the fact that they're supposed to be of the administration's opposition party. Very few, if any of them, have Burt's gift of fireworks, either.

Burt's Sincerity

Burt Wheeler's sincerity is something awful.

I wouldn't say that there aren't other politicians who are as sincere as he is, but it would be hard to find another one who has proved it as he has.

Out in the mining country, in "I. W. W." days, some "Wobblies" were due to be tried on charges of dynamitings, assassinations and miscellaneous other anarchistic crimes. They were so generally hated that they scarcely could find a lawyer to defend them in Montana's courts. Risking his future career and maybe his personal safety, right then, Burt had the courage to take on the job and handled it well.

Montana unexpectedly recognized his nerve, chose him for office and presently he landed in Washington as a Democratic senator.

Never A Conservative

Senators have a tendecy to turn conservative, but Burt Wheeler didn't. The Democrats didn't prove to be as liberal as he'd hoped, but he couldn't see that the Republicans were much better.

At that juncture the elder Senator Robert M. LaFollette was running for president on the liberally independent Progressive ticket. He offered Burt second place on his ballott. It looked like the sacrifice of a senatorship for a sure licking. Nevertheless, Wheeler had the intestinal fortitude to accept. He was Progressively licked, as expected, but unexpectedly, Montana, still admiring him, kept him on as a Democratic senator.

I don't know just how far his state stood by him on purely personal grounds or how far it was

GRADUATION

"That's the last!" said he to her.
"That's our youngest graduating!
Fine young chap in gown and cap!
Worth the working for and waiting.
From the day when he was born
This is what we've prayed to do.
There he stands. Clap your hands!
There's our every dream come true!

"There he is in cap and gown
As we've hoped and worked to get him.
Now he goes, goodness knows,
Fit to face what may beset him.
Granted health and time I vowed
This is what we'd surely do.
Finished dreams! Now it seems
That we're graduating, too!

"There's the task we undertook.
There's the end of all our fretting!
Every thought—all we've sought—
That certificate he's getting.
Duty done and pledge complete!
Let the tears come flooding through
As he nears! Down the years
This is what we prayed to do."

The Great Game Of Politics

The Power Trust Cry

WASHINGTON, July 1.

ONE interesting question opened up by the Wendell Willkie nomination is how Mr. Willkie is going to handle the attack on him as being unfit for the Presidency because he has been a successful public utility executive. That this will be the main line of fire seemed indicated by the outgivings from various Administration sources. Slyly led by Mr. Roosevelt himself, with his press conference crack about the power failure of his elevator, both journalistic and political reflectors of White House thought started right out to shout "power trust, power trust."

THE word was passed around by the New Dealers that good old "Charley" Michelson, the Champion Smearer, is tuning up to do the job on Mr. Willkie he once did on Mr. Hoover and for which he is so well equipped that he can smear on one side just as easily as he can smear on the other. It is said that electric light bills are to be photographed and reproduced; that Mr. Willkie's corporate connections, his salary, his directorates, stock holdings and clubs are to be played up in a big way. The old 1936 technique that turned the Liberty League into such a liability is to be revived in intensified form.

"IT IS," say the New Dealers, "going to be duck soup." Maybe so, but there are plenty who doubt it. The whole history of the Willkie movement, climaxing in his nomination, negatives the idea that the people will be greatly affected by that kind of stuff. Mr. Willkie's public utility career has been a matter of common knowledge for several years. There is hardly a reader of a newspaper anywhere who does not know the facts. The attack on him because of his public utility connections was the main weapon of his opponents in the recent Republican Convention. They left very little unsaid on the subject. It was singularly ineffectual. It did not diminish Mr. Willkie's popular support at all. And it did not scare the delegates.

ON this question, the people as a whole seemed to sense the phoniness of the attempt to make it appear that there is something sinister in the kind of business record Mr. Willkie has had and that a decent man, otherwise qualified, is disbarred from high public office because of public utility connections. That has been the assumption upon which the demagogues in both parties have proceeded for a number of years. The popular tide which forced the Willkie nomination over the strongest kind of political resistance seems to mean that the people do not share that assumption.

THOSE who have talked with Mr. Willkie on this subject are convinced he will deal adequately with the attack when the time comes. As a matter of fact, he is fully prepared to come to grips on this issue—particularly with Mr Roosevelt. He does not, his many friends assert, want to make a campaign of personalities, but he does not intend to let himself be put on the defensive in this business. If the New Dealers want a debate on this or on Wall Street and his corporate connections, they can have it.

HE is not, for example, at all averse to having it known that his stock interest in the Commonwealth and Southern is insignificant compared to the stock interest of Mr. Roosevelt and his family in the gigantic General Electric Company. Nor will he shrink from a comparison of his earnings in the last seven years with those of the Roosevelt family—father, mother, wife and children—since Mr. Roosevelt entered the White House. As to Wall Street, there is, say Mr. Willkie's friends, evidence that in an entirely legitimate way and as a private citizen, Mr. Roosevelt did not hesitate himself to go to Wall Street for aid in some of his unsuccessful business enterprises.

State To Become Leading Factor In Willkie Battle

Expected To Become Important Battleground In Coming Presidential Campaign

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 1.—Pennsylvania is expected to become an important battleground for the presidential campaign of Wendell Willkie, newly-chosen candidate of the Republican party for president.

Gov. Arthur H. James is expected to play a vital role in Willkie's effort to capture the Keystone state's 36 electoral votes, next to those of New York the second largest in the nation.

Pennsylvania, once regarded as the home of rock-ribbed Republicanism and always sure to vote a resounding majority for the Republican national ticket, today is in the doubtful column. In the 1936 presidential election Roosevelt carried the state by more than 600,000 majority.

Governor James' aid is expected to prove of great importance to the Willkie campaign. The Pennsylvania chief executive is a rousing speaker and a forceful personality on the speaker's stand.

The Pennsylvania Republican organization, despite its antipathy to Willkie, is expected to fall in line and support the new candidate also. Pennsylvania's leaders, Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Philadelphia oil executive, and former U. S. Senator Joseph Grundy, Bristol manufacturer, appear to have no other choice.

This is especially true of Pew, who would much rather have seen Taft receive the nomination for Pew's candidate, Jay Cooke, Republican chairman of the Philadelphia city committee, is the party's nominee for United States senator this fall.

Governor James told a caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican convention that he would support the convention's choice "down the line", regardless of who he might be. When the nomination of Willkie was assured and Gov. John Bricker of Ohio presented a motion to make Willkie's nomination unanimous, Governor James took the platform to second the motion.

The Great Game Of Politics

MR. WILLKIE would prefer a campaign free from this kind of thing and on a higher plane than the present Administration comment indicates they want to wage it. He would like to discuss issues, not individuals. But if, as their first blast seems to mean, Administration forces intend to make a personal assault on Mr. Willkie, they will find no timid, inarticulate candidate, anxious to "cover up", but a clear-headed, two-fisted fighting man able and willing to hit back and hit back hard. If it is necessary to discuss this subject with the people, it will be discussed thoroughly.

THAT is about the way Mr. Willkie's friends react to this initial power-trust barrage. They are not afraid of it and neither is he. Their theory is that the American people have developed a sense of realities in the last year and the raucous cries of the radicals to a considerable extent have lost their potency. In the past year a lot of stuff which they greedily gulped in the early days of the New Deal has soured on the public stomach. For a long time the demagogues in both parties used the public utilities as their most reliable bugaboo.

UNDOUBTEDLY there has been much to criticize in them in the past. But Mr. Willkie seems to have a gift for getting realities over to the people. If this subject is genuinely debated he can, perhaps, use that gift again. There is, however, a feeling among a considerable number of observers that the people do not really care three straws whether Mr. Willkie has been a public utility executive or not. This time they are interested in other things.

Huge Grants To Some Of States

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, July 1—The rapid growth of federal grants to the states has raised an insistent new question concerning the relative capacities of the states to support selected services, says Dr. Paul H. Wueller, associate professor of economics at the Pennsylvania State college.

Critics of the present system of non-matching and equal-matching grants, he said, are declaring in louder terms each day that this plan does not enable the poorer states to offer services comparable to the wealthier states. They recommend that the states contribute only in proportion to their specific need and their ability to pay.

Dr. Wueller, who conducted a study of the subject for the National Bureau of Economic Research, quoted figures on the growth of federal grants. In 1929, these grants, in terms of their percentage of state revenues, ranged from 2.4 for New Jersey to 48.4 for Wyoming. In 1934, the minimum and maximum percentages had jumped to 35.9 for California and 163.2 for South Dakota.

IN THE LAST FEW MONTHS, certain regular-priced gasolines have been implying that they will perform as well as our premium-priced gasoline, Gulf No-Nox.

Actually, that is a long way from being true.

There are three methods most generally used to determine the anti-knock value of a gasoline. These tests are used by us, used by our competitors, and are recognized by everybody in the industry.

On these tests of quality made by an independent laboratory, the regular gasoline, which is making the most to-do about being the equal of Gulf No-Nox, RATED 7 FULL POINTS BELOW GULF NO-NOX!

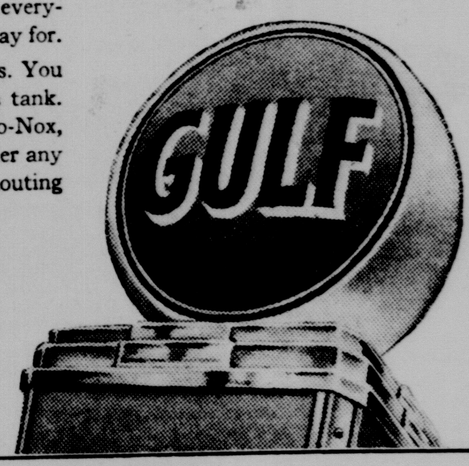

Even a 3-point difference in anti-knock rating is a noticeable difference. This 7-point difference is a BIG difference—gives Gulf No-Nox a major advantage in the high-compression engines you find in the newer cars.

Therefore, don't swallow it hook, line, and sinker, when someone tells you that his regular gas (however much it's been improved!) is as good as improved Gulf No-Nox. It isn't. In gasolines, as in everything else, you get about what you pay for.

These facts aren't just paper facts. You can confirm them in your own gas tank. Next time—try just one tankful of No-Nox, and make up your own mind whether any regular gas, anywhere, is within shouting distance of it!

Second Payment Made By Mexico

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1—A second installment of $1,000,000 was paid to the United States by Mexico Saturday on claims of American citizens whose properties have been seized by Mexico since 1927 under its land division program. A similar payment was made in May of last year.

Mexican Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera gave the check to Secretary of State Hull.

Total amount of Mexico's payments to Americans whose lands were confiscated has not been decided upon. Commissioners representing the two countries, the state department said, still are negotiating. Mexico agreed in 1938 however, to begin paying installments pending settlement of the entire issue.

recognition of him as a true-blue democrat (little "d").

Anyway, the other day, he seems to have begun to suspect that the Roosevelt administration contemplates participation in the current world conflict in some fashion not entirely 'short of war."

No War For Wheeler

Thereupon, he announced that, if the Democratic party's a "war party" he no longer belongs to it.

It was quite an announcement, considering that Burt's a candidate for senatorial re-election, on the Democratic ticket, this very year. If he wins, he'll win as a Democratic outlaw (administratively speaking) and normally that's a hard stunt. But Burt's used to it.

However, that isn't all.

Wheeler seems to have reached the conclusion, not only that the administration Democratic party's a war party.

He accuses it of having turned conservative.

When President Roosevelt named Henry J. Stimson and Frank Knox, respectively for his cabinet posts of war and the navy, Burt's story is that F. D. R. chose the two most conservative Republicans he could hit on.

So the administration, says Wheeler, not only is pro-war; it's economically reactionary.

Burton K. has been Democratically talked about presidentially. He won't be nominated. Nevertheless, he's prominent, and will be during the coming campaign.

French General Sums Up Warnings For World As Developed In War

By KENNETH DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 1.—Cold-eyed, six-foot three French Gen. Charles De Gaulle, who tried for the last six years to warn France of the disaster which has now overwhelmed her, asserted that the United States is not safe against attack.

I was privileged to obtain the first personal interview the stubbornly independent 50-year-old warrior has granted since he broke with his ancient chief, Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and came to England to pick up the torch of French resistance.

I spent less than 30 minutes at his rigorously plain headquarters, a small office beside the Thames river. During our talk he remained standing and unsmiling. To my questions, which were submitted in advance, he gave answers which he declined to elaborate.

My first question was:

"What do you think is the most important lesson to America in the war to date?"

Lesson To America

Gen. De Gaulle said:

"The most important lesson to America is that we are witnessing a revolution of military science and the possibilities of war.

"A leading factor in this revolution is mechanized strength in the air, on land and at sea. Range and strength are increasing from month to month at a rapid rate and in enormous proportions.

"No place in the entire world any longer is in position to consider itself protected geographically from attack which could be started at any other point in the world."

I asked:

"Try to forget you are French and put yourself in the place of a patriotic American citizen. As such, what policy for the United States would you favor?"

"If I were an American," said General De Graulle, "I should desire to be ready at any time or moment with the necessary weapons at hand to protect American territorial safety.

"At the same time I would resolve to do my utmost to save and protect the liberty of the world by all means and at all costs."

He thumped his desk with his long fore-finger to emphasize these last words.

Fifth Column Activity

The general gave a terse opinion on fifth column activity in France.

"I can only say," he declared, "that I have been in a position to witness efficient action of the fifth column, especially in framing leading personalities of the country."

The five most important reasons for the defeat of France, in the order of their importance, he listed as follows:

"First, antiquated military system, which failed to develop a sufficient proportion of mechanized strength in the air and on land.

"Second, panic created among the civil population by German planes and mechanized columns and choking of roads by refugees.

"Third, the military background of leading French personalities and the ancient ways of action. They did not meet the precise demands made by new conditions of modern warfare—quick thinking, initiative, decision on military, economic and even moral planes.

"Fourth, the tangible and efficacious action of the fifth column, especially upon the minds of the leaders.

"Fifth, insufficient co-ordination of the efforts of the Allies."

Asked whther he thought Germany still could be beaten, the general replied:

Germany Can Be Defeated

"Germany still can and must be defeated. But we must make use of the same weapons and means which so far have proved successful for Germany.

"Germany so far has won with 6,000 tanks and 5,000 planes. She will be defeated by 20,000 tanks and 20,000 planes."

In my ten months with the French armies, this was the first time I had met General De Gaulle. But I had heard him before. He was one of the few who from 1934 on told the French general staff what was wrong with the army. He got no thanks.

Then between May 15 and 18 he was riding in a tank at the head of the fourth armored division which slashed its way through the advancing Germans in Flanders by brilliant counter-attacks which temporarily saved the day.

As a footnote to his comments, my mind goes back to an interview I obtained from General Jose Solchaga, one of the most brilliant of generalissimo Francisco Franco's generals, at the end of the Spanish war.

He told me that a revolution of military science was coming in air and in mechanized forces. But that story was not printed in England and France.

NEW YORK BRIDGES ARE LOSING FAME

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO.—Provided the present trend continues, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge within five years will become the most heavily travelled span in the United States.

A study by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce revealed that New York City's bridges and tubes, contrary to the general impression, are not the most heavily-used in the country.

The Chamber's research showed that there are 241 toll bridges, 5 toll tunnels and 660 toll ferries in the United States. Daily, 635,000 vehicles pay tolls, or slightly more than 2 percent of the number of motor vehicles registered in the United States.

To Build 45 Vessels For United States Navy

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1. — The navy on Monday awarded contracts for the largest warship construction program in its history when it ordered work to start on 45 vessels which will cost approximately $514,000,000.

The construction contracts which are for 193,000 tons call for an outlay of $414,000,000 for 11 cruisers, 20 destroyers, 13 submarines and one seaplane tender. This does not include armament, armor, ammunition or propelling machinery for the submarines, all of which will be furnished later by the government at an approximate cost of $100,000,000.

The program includes the following contracts:

Electric Boat Company, New London, Conn., 13 submarines at $2,795,000 each.

Bethlehem Steel Company, Quincy, Mass., four cruisers at $23,618,000 each and four cruisers at $18,573,000 each.

Bethlehem Steel Company, Union Iron Works plant, two destroyers at $5,977,000 each.

OLD-FASHIONED SCHOOL TEACHER IS ON WAY OUT

(International News Service)

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—The old-fashioned cross school teacher is on her way out in Indiana, according to a survey undertaken recently at the Indiana State Teachers' College of classroom teaching in many elementary schools.

After visits had been made to 217 classrooms over the state, it was revealed that 83 per cent of the teachers encountered were pleasant and apparently sympathetic with their pupils.

Forty-seven per cent of all classrooms were described as being homelike, and 46.5 per cent had movable types of seating equipment instead of old-fashioned seats bolted to the floor in rows.

The severest criticism made in the survey was in the field of teaching skill with a definite practical application, less than two per cent of the classrooms being indicated as showing that facts were being taught for a definite need.

Boosters Plug For Creek's "Portable Dam" Project

Dreams for New Castle youngsters would come true if somebody—somewhere—corralled the cash to build the simply-designed yet rigid "portable dam" in Neshannock creek at a point not far above the North Street bridge.

W. Leslie Wilson, member of New Castle Rotary and a civil engineer, has constructed a quarter-scale model of the dam and already a number of citizens have seen it. Wilson prepared the model at the suggestion of a Rotary committee and recently exhibited it before the club.

Pushing the project are several members of Rotary who believe it would furnish for children a satisfactory type of pool in the summertime. The dam could be put up and taken down in quick time. Now the youngsters keep constantly building their own fragile stone dams.

Biggest part of the job, Wilson said, would be the construction of a five-foot-wide and five-foot-deep concrete base over a 150-foot distance across the creek. That base would, of course, be permanent.

Every eight feet across the concrete strip would be erected four-feet-high braced, the sides of which would provide a track-like connection for the actual back sections of the dam. The dam sections could be placed by larger boys and removed that way, too.

A group of citizens are boosting the project and conferences with city and county officials are planned. Meanwhile, Wilson's model continues to provoke interest and enthusiasm.

Deny Parachute Troops Land In Part Of Britain

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 1—British authorities late today officially denied a report that German invaders had landed on the west coast of England, and likewise discounted a spreading rumor that an undetermined number of Nazi parachutists had landed near some town in the English midlands yesterday.

Police officials and then government authorities denied the parachutist rumor, and a few moments later the government also officially denied the rumor that Germans had landed on the west coast.

THEY HELPED PUT WILLKIE OVER

These three men, pictured together in a conference in Philadelphia, aided greatly the selection of Wendell Willkie as Republican presidential standard bearer. They are Congressman Charles Halleck of Indiana, Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota and Governor Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut.

Something About Early Life Of G. O. P. Nominee

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles on Wendell L. Willkie, dynamic hoosier, who is the candidate of the Republican party for the presidency. The series is designed to answer many questions about the man aside from straight biographical information.)

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 1.—Fred Willkie says brother Wendell has paid less attention to amassing wealth than any man he knows.

"I doubt if Wen ever has given a thought to accumulating anything," Fred says. "Wen has always been a great worker, he has always tackled the tough jobs, and if he has grown rich as a result it is entirely incidental.

"Commonwealth & Southern paid him $75,000 a year, and twice they wanted to boost his pay. He wouldn't take it—he said $75,000 a year was plenty."

Not so many years ago Wendell worked a year, two years, for the salary the utility company eventually paid him to work one week.

He is the only graduate of Ellwood, Ind., high school who ever got into the big money, but he reports with a chuckle:

"I was thrown out of there two or three times."

Born in Elwood, Ind.

Wen Wilkie was born in Ellwood on February 18, 1892, the last of six children born to Herman and Henrietta Willkie. There wasn't a Wendell in the family on either side, but it was in the days of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the author, and Wendell Phillips, the preacher and his mother liked the name.

His parents both were lawyers—his mother was the first woman admitted to the Indiana bar—and both were descendants of Germans who left the old country in the social revolution of the day, which also brought Carl Schurz to America.

Wen or "Win" as he came to be known when he developed that habit, was no prize scholar in his early school days. His marks were low not because he couldn't do better but because he was having too much fun. By the time he finished high school he apparently had mastered the secret and wound up with top marks and without having ceased to have fun.

No Idlers In Family

Wen's father was the type of man who believed that a boy should dig in and start to earn a penny early in life. He thought it gave a boy a proper appreciation of both labor and money.

Fred says: "There were no idlers in our family."

When he was 11, Wen got his first taste of hard work. Brother Ed, today a giant with big hands that could crush a man, entered into a partnership with him in school vacation to move a couple of small buildings for a farmer.

Brain and brawn made up for inferior equipment and they finished the job, drawing a couple of dollars for it.

Having started work, Wen never quit. He entered the University of Indiana at the age of 15 but he was there for seven years because he would quit classes at the drop of a hat to try out a new job.

He picked vegetables in California, rambled over to Minnesota to harvest wheat, headed for Texas to work in the oil fields, pulled corn in Iowa, ran a tent hotel in a Colorado boom town and worked as a short order cookin an unfancy lunch room.

The university became accustomed to the tousled student who wore a turtle-neck sweater to classes, chewed tobacco and soap-boxed liberal causes on the campus. His own class made him class orator.

Finishing his courses in 1914 with a bachelor of arts degree, Wen connected with a history teaching post at Coffeyville, Kansas high school, and held it for one school year. However, he disliked the confinement of the class room and estimated that the freedom of the court room was more to his liking and he returned to the University and waded into the study of law.

In 1916 he began practice in his parent's law office and that was the beginning of the career which led to his nomination for the presidency.

WOMEN OF PUERTO RICO WORK FOR ALLIED CAUSE

(International News Service)

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—The women of Puerto Rico are doing their bit to help the Allied cause in the war.

Led by the Alliance Francaise and Les Amis de le France, two French organizations in this tropic isle of Uncle Sam's, the women are working daily to send food, clothing and tobacco to French and British troops at the front.

Much of the work is done at home but once weekly the workers meet to pack kits and to receive assignments for the coming weeks.

Besides kits of stockings, gloves sweaters and tobacco being sent to the soldiers, the women are dispatching children's clothing, baby blankets, and dresses to organizations in France, from which point the articles are distributed to the needy.

Sentiment here is practically all for the Allied cause.

Study Forest Tree Planting In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1.—A special study of forest tree plantations on state forest land has recently been inaugurated by the Department of Forests and Waters, according to Chas. E. Baer, deputy secretary.

This study will include recommendations and methods for the thinning and pruning of trees in plantations, with a view of growing clear timber of superior quality.

Baer points out that the pruning will be pursued in accordance with approved forest practice. He explained, however, that pruning under any and all conditions is by no means recommended.

The thinning and pruning operations will be confined to plantations where trees are not less than 12 to 15 feet in height and no pruning will be done until the trees of youth stands show sufficient variations to enable the inspectors to pick out the dominant trees. To produce the best timber the stem of the tree should be free from limbs, thereby eliminating knots.

Hasty Marriage Of Screen Actress Heads For Divorce

Lana Turner To Seek Divorce From Artie Shaw, Swing Band Leader

By HARRISON CARROL
(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, July 1. — Lana Turner, young red-headed film star, and Artie Shaw, swing band leader, have come to a parting of the ways, close friends of the couple revealed today in Hollywood.

The rift, which Hollywood has been predicting ever since the pair eloped to Las Vegas (Nev.) on February 13, became definite, it is said, when Shaw's 19-year-old bride moved her things out of his home yesterday and took an apartment in Beverly Hills.

Unless she changes her mind, the shapely M-G-M actress also will take steps to file a suit for divorce, intimates declared. She already has consulted an attorney and a complaint is being prepared, it was said.

It was Hollywood's biggest surprise of the year when pretty Lana Turner married the 29-year-old orchestra leader, whose music had made him the idol of thousands of jitterbugs. The two had worked together in the M-G-M- picture, "Dancing Co-Ed," but didn't get along.

Had One Date

However, one date with the band leader changed her mind.

The two of them started out for a party and wound up by taking a plane to Las Vegas, where they roused the county clerk and were married. Lana didn't even have an engagement ring.

The marriage was hectic from the start.

Lana was in the middle of a picture, so the honeymoon had to be delayed. She and Shaw eventually got away for a three weeks' trip to New York, but only at the cost of a studio suspension.

The honeymooners had scarcely returned when rift rumors began to circulate. Denials failed to squelch them.

Then, some weeks ago, Lana was taken ill and went to a hospital.

Friends said the star made a valiant fight to preserve her marriage, but she and Shaw were unsuited temperamentally and after many battles and reconciliations Lana finally decided separation was the only possible course.

Claudette Colbert And Bing Crosby Are Highest Paid

Report Of Salaries For 1938 Announced By Treasury Department

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Hollywoods' motion picture industry continues to supply the nation's higher salaried individuals, the Treasury reported today.

Louis B. Mayer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive, with compensation of $688,369, topped a supplemental list of 250 persons who paid income taxes on earnings of $75,000 or more in 1938.

In an earlier list of high money earners issued by the Treasury last January, movie stars generally paced the field, although the largest individual income reported at that time was $469,713, paid to E. A. Countway, Boston soap company executive.

Claudette Colbert was the highest paid screen actress, receiving $426,944, according to the Treasury's January and July report. Bing Crosby headed the actors with earnings of $410,000.

Other high Hollywood earners included: Irene Dunne, $405,222; Cary Grant, $340,625; Victor McLaglen, $248,808; Charles Boyer, $375,277; W. C. Fields, $208,100; Katharine Hepburn, $195,160; Joe E. AROUND CITY HALL

Power shovel purchased recently by the city has already been put into operation. It is removing dirt from the embankment of the Big Run Creek, at the South Jefferson street bridge. Several sections of the new sanitary sewer have been laid. The stream is to be widened to a width of 65 feet at the water's edge which because of a 1x1 slope will make the top width of the seven feet high walls 79 feet, city engineering bureau attaches report. The Big Run creek improvement will be approximately 3,000 feet in length and is being made to prevent possible floods.

During meeting today in city hall, council adopted the recommendation of Solicitor R. M. White, that the city take possession of a property sold at tax sale to the city reputedly owned by Anna Ihmson, East Brook street. There is stone on the property which the city needs. An accurate count of the tonnage removed will be kept by the city engineer's department, council asserted.

A representative of the P. R. R. today appeared before Council relative to the complaint of Jordan Bailey, North Liberty street, regarding reported incessant tooting of engine whistles and ringing of bells. The representative, Ed. Fisher, stated that everything is being done to keep the crossings from being blocked and to check any uncalled for whistling or ringing of bells, excepting that called for by law.

German Report Of War Action

"Good Results" From Attacks On England Are Reported By Nazis

(International News Service)

CHANCELLOR HITLER'S HEADQUARTERS, July 1.—"Good results" from German air raids against England and Scotland and a series of successes at sea were announced by the German high command today.

"There were no particular events in France," said the war communique.

"A German submarine sank 23,000 tons of enemy merchant ships and torpedoed one (British) cruiser of the Orion class south of Brest.

"Two of the merchant vessels sunk were under convoy.

"Lieutenant Commander Gunther Prien (famous German U-boat commander who sank the British battleship Royal Oak) during the last few days sank additional enemy merchant ships, increasing his total to 51,086 tons.

Attack England

"German fighting planes on the night of June 30-July 1, again attacked several points on the Scotch east coast and the English east and west coasts, achieving good results.

"Nine British Blenheim fighters attempting to attack the airport at Merville-Lestrem near Lille June 30 under protection of pursuit planes were dispersed by German anti-aircraft batteries and later engaged in a violent battle by our chasers.

"Six Blenheims and three British chasers were shot down.

"Enemy attacks against non-military objectives in northern, western and southern Germany on the night of June 30-July 1 caused only a little meterial damage.

"British air losses yesterday totalled 18 planes, including eleven brought down in air battles and seven by anti-aircraft fire. One German plane is missing."

Inclement Weather Fails To Prevent Attendance Of Record Crowd

ATTORNEY CALDWELL PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

In spite of the rain Sunday afternoon, over 700 Polish-American residents of Lawrence County gathered for the annual Polish Day Outing at Kusnerczyk's, near Mt. Jackson. The event was under the auspices of the Polish Central Organization.

Because of the rain, most of the program took place in the pavilion, and many of those who attended were unable to get in because of a lack of space.

The program as previously arranged was carried out, the speakers being Attorney William J. Caldwell, of this city, and Prof. H. Liwach, who is attached to the Polish consulate at Pittsburgh. There was mass at the Madonna church in Oakland at 10:30 o'clock, with the program following in the afternoon, presided over by John C. Wajert, president of the Central Council of Polish organizations.

The program consisted of songs, declamations, musical numbers, dances, and acrobatic acts, by the young people.

Cole Bros. Circus Day Near

CHATITA WEBER AND SAMMY

"Thrill Merchant" . . . That's the nickname her friends calls Chattita Weber, the slim little girl, who twice daily executes unbelievable feats on the trapeze high up in the dome of the big tent.

But nineteen years old this intrepid little lady is the greatest living artist in her particular field. Miss Weber was born in a circus trunk, which is circus parlance for the off-spring of circus parents. Every muscle in her body has been coaxed and rehearsed innumerable times in her varied routines. The result is an unequalled performance and one that cannot be duplicated. Other headline acts among the 200 carried with the Cole Bros. Circus this year are The Escalante Troupe of acrobats, aerialists and tumblers, The Loyal-Repenski Family of bareback riders, The Great Martinez Troupe of Mexican wirewalkers, and the world's greatest western star, Ken Maynard, who will be seen at every performance. Ken is bringing an entire wild west exhibition to the Cole show this year. Cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, and riders, all of whom have appeared with him in his many recent moving pictures.

An extraordinary introduction to the circus this season will be a glorious pageant entitled "La Habana" with hundreds of dancing girls, massed bands, musical novelties, and animals. Special scenery and lighting effects will be used and the pageant will include a vast assemblage of internationally famous stars.

Tuesday, July 9, is the circus day this year in New Castle when the Great Cole Bros. Circus will give two performances starting at 2 and 8 P. M.

Dr. S. E. Irvine Speaks At Service In Cascade Park

Large Crowd Attends First Union Service At New Community Building In Park

"Can We Be Safe" was the sermon theme used by Dr. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the First U. P. church, speaker at the first union church service held in the community building at Cascade park Sunday evening, which attracted a large crowd in spite of inclement weather.

Dr. Irvine, in his most interesting sermon, spoke about the various conditions of the world today and said that the only things we could be safe about today were moral issues. He stressed the fact that we are living in a dangerous age, but that if everything was safe, it would be a dull world with no initiative or development.

The invocation last evening was given by Rev. J. A. Cousins, pastor of the Croton Methodist church, and the scripture was read by Rev. C. J. Burton of St. Andrew's church. Following a prayer by Rev. J. Calvin Rose, Second U. P. church, announcements were made by Rev. W. V. McLean, First Methodist church minister, and the sermon was delivered. Dr. Irvine also gave the benediction.

Alan B. Davis, minister of Music at the First U. P. church, had charge of the musical part of the program with the church choir presenting an anthem and Mrs. Muryl Boyd a soprano solo.

Union services at the park will be held every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock during the summer. Dr. J. J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterain church, will be the speaker next Sunday evening, July 7. These services are sponsored by the New Castle Ministerial Association.

WPA Workers Sign Loyalty Pledges

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1—As the new federal appropriations act embracing the WPA became effective today nearly all of the 156,000 project workers had signed "loyalty" pledges as required by congress.

The affidavits state that the employe is not an alien, a Communist or a member of a Nazi Bund, and does not advocate the overthrow of the American government. Workers must sign the pledge if they wish to continue on project payrolls.

WPA officials said only a few employes in metropolitan areas had failed to sign the affidavit.

In Philadelphia five employes, one an admitted Communist, refused to sign the pledge while in Pittsburgh two aliens were dropped.

Officers Make Raid On Alleged German Bund Picnic Event

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 1. — Two men were being held for questioning today following a raid on an alleged German-American Bund picnic at Center Beach, on route 80, in which agents confiscated 11 barrels of beer.

G-men and liquor control board agents wanted to question Henry Roth of Jeannette, and John Roman of Plum township, the pair arrested. Some of the picnic crowd of 50 persons told agents that money from the sale of the beer was for Hitler.

One of the arrested men and another of the crowd wore gold Nazi insignia pins in their coat lapels, agents added.

They were told the picnic was for the workmen's benefit fund, with headquarters at 714 Seneca street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Tickets sold for $1. The men arrested were charged technically with selling beer on Sunday without a license.

Roth, who denied one agent's statement that he had asserted he "would rather be back in Germany", and Roman telegraphed the Brooklyn headquarters of the benefit fund for $2,000 bond. The agent said Roth claimed he had been born in Germany but had been a citizen of the United States 42 years.

Excessive Rainfall Noted During June

Almost Inch And Half More Than Normal Amount Of Rain Falls During Month

Unofficial figures taken from the weather recordings during the month reveal that almost an inch and a half more rain fell during June this year than the normal amount, the total being 5.69 inches. The normal rainfall for June is 4.29 inches, figures of the U. S. weather recording station here reveal.

Rain fell on 23 of the 30 days during the month, and since June 8 there have been only two days on which some rain has not fallen at all. There was also an excess of rainfall during May, the month winding up with a downpour which amounted to 1.48 inches, making over seven inches of rain for the past 31 days.

Farmers and gardeners have suffered tremendously because of the unusual amount of precipitation, being unable to get into their fields to work them, and weeds have gotton almost out of hand.

PITTSBURGH, July 1.—A Sunday evening sailboat outing on the Allegheny river had ended disastrously today for 12-year-old David Sharlock, of Regent Square, who drowned in an attempt to swim to shore after the small craft capsized.

Two brothers of the drowned lad, Jerry, 11, and Robert, 19, owner of the sailboat, and Miss Ruth Rock, 16, of Edgewood, were rescued by members of the Brilliant Boat Club in motor boats. The boat was blown over as it was preparing to change tack, Robert said.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1. — The death of former Governor John S. Fisher left Pennsylvania with only three living ex-governors. They are 77-year-old John K. Tener, who served from 1911 to 1915; Gifford Pinchot, who was twice governor—from 1923 to 1927 and from 1931 to 1935—and the commonwealth's first Democratic governor in 44 years, George H. Earle, who succeeded Pinchot in 1935.

The only other chief executives to serve two terms in the past 150 years were: Gen. John F. Hartranft, 1873 to 1876, 1876 to 1879, and Robert E. Pattison, who headed the state from 1883 to 1887 and again from 1891 to 1895. General Hartranft's successive terms, however, were under two different state constitutions. His first term was served under the constitution of 1838 and his second under the present constitution, adopted in 1873.

The Republican national convention in Philadelphia drew heavily on the department chiefs on Capitol Hill. Among the major executives who remained at their desks while the convention was in progress were Attorney General Claude T. Reno, Motor Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams and Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas. With Governor James attending the convention as a delegate-at-large, the customary hubbub in the chief executive's office had quieted.

The commonwealth stands to lose in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 through the state supreme court ruling which relieved corporations of paying an additional one mill tax on their 1935 corporate indebtedness. Justice department officials professed to find some consolation, however, in the court's upholding the constitutionality of the state's personal property tax act of 1935 as applied to insurance companies.

Only five Pennsylvania mutual firms are subject to the personal property tax act as applied to them, including two in Philadelphia and one each in Pittsburgh, Scranton and Harrisburg. How much revenue will accrue to the state as a result of the court decision has not yet been determined by estimators of the department of revenue.

Temporarily overshadowed by Republican convention activities, Pennsylvania Democrats quietly are mapping plans to solidify third term sentiment when they invade Chicago next month for their party's national convention. The Pennsylvania delegation will list two Guffeys as delegates-at-large in consequence of the substitution of Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, the senator's sister, for the late Thomas Logue, Philadelphia Democrat.

A serious dearth of American flags is reported on Capitol Hill . . . It is said that there are not more than a dozen flags at the Capitol and that when a state department wishes to hoist a flag over one of its buildings on some special occasion, it must borrow one from the department of property and supplies.

This fact became known when the state department of highways acted to honor the memory of former Gov. John S. Fisher by flying the American flag at half staff on its 67 highway county offices. . . . It discovered, however, that many flags did not exist. . . . The highway department could not buy the flags, it was stated, because of a legal opinion handed down some eight years ago by the attorney general barring the highways department from using motor vehicle funds for the purchase of flags.

Republican leaders, among them several members of the James cabinet, who spoke against Wendell Willkie before the opening of the Republican national convention will now have to reverse their stands.... At a pre-convention rally at the capital for James they referred to Willkie as "a Democrat and new dealer."

Rumors on Capitol Hill are that there will be a shakeup in the public utility commission next month. . . . It is said that 200 Democratic employes may be dismissed. . . . . The state regulatory body now has a majority of commissioners who are Republican . . . Up to a short time ago the commission was composed of two Republicans and two Democrats. . . . Governor James some time ago stated no Democratic employes would be dismissed because of their political affiliations.

Maj. James Spence, new publicity director for the state bureau of employment service and unemployment compensation, is a newspaperman of long standing. . . . Fifteen years ago he worked for a Philadelphia newspaper. . . . For the past 10 years he has been editor of a weekly at Hawley, in Wayne county. . . . Major Spence succeeds James Jennings, of Wilkes-Barre.

Delegates to the Democratic national convention at Chicago are not expected to hold their first caucus until the opening day of the convention, on Monday, July 15, the Democratic state committee revealed at Harrisburg. . . . The first caucus of the group of 72 delegates is expected to be held at 10 a. m.... Warren R. Roberts, state auditor general, is expected to be chosen chairman of the group. . . . All the delegates are supporters of President Roosevelt for a third term.... The headquarters of the Pennsylvania delegation will be located at the Stevens Hotel.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CONDUCT

It is strange but it is true that we often find young people of good intellect, living in a good environment, who tend to be cruel, pugnacious, irresponsible, and resentful of authority. They are always showing sudden changes of mood and are generally emotionally unstable. These children resent it when parents or others try to help them.

We often find that these youths, with their bullying, bragging egotism are really trying to cloak a feeling of inferiority and lack of self confidence. These resentful adolescents usually react worse at home than anywhere else. Parents usually become the butt of their moods of defiance, probably because they didn't take a firm stand at first.

In its early stages such a mental state is characterized by the building up of petty grievances. The boy or girl complains that people are unfair to him, he is always badly treated. When it makes its appearance first, this tendency is easily checked. Later on, it becomes a thing that is difficult if not impossible to destroy.

Parents should realize that defiance and sullenness can't be overcome by force and discipline. Talking won't do much good either, for chances are the child will become even more rebellious when he is forced to listen to reason. This is the time when the parents need patience. For the time being, they must try hard to make the child happy without regard to obedience or usefulness for the rebellious delinquent child is invariably an unhappy child. Parents in such a crisis, should find out ways of using the child's good points to best advantage. For the time being they may even have to withdraw their parential authority as much as can be safely done. Sometimes if you do this, you can show the child that freedom is really a means to an end, whereas he has been thinking and acting all along as though it was actually the end itself.

When I said that parents need patience, I had in mind the fact that personality traits and mental attitudes cannot be changed over night. They must be moulded over periods of months if they are going to be successful. And if parents are ever going to solve the conflicts they have with their children they must be sufficiently interested to learn the real motive behind the child's conduct.

If parents would just look these matters squarely in the face as their children grow up, the juvenile courts would soon close for lack of business.

Reports Troop K In Good Condition

Men Have Strenuous Drill On Sunday Afternoon Despite Rainstorm

In Commanding General Edward Martin's message to officers of the units of the Pennsylvania National Guard, Captain G. F. Mitchell, of local Troop K, states that the general stressed, "In preparing an organization for the field, it is always necessary to spend considerable time in 'hardening' the troops. This refers to the physical condition of the individuals. I again suggest, that each officer and soldier of the P. N. G. improve his personal bodily efficiency, by spending some time in outdoor recreation. A strong healthy body is necessary to maintain an alert mind under campaign conditions."

Sunday afternoon, the men were given a strenuous drill, under unfavorable conditions, in the rain, and over rough and muddy ground. This was done to determine the physical qualifications as laid down by the commanding general. The troopers measured up very favorably, states Captain Mitchell, although they all looked like "drowned rats" on their return to the Armory.

This drill of the cavalry troop, which was afoot, (as their mounts were forwarded to camp almost two weeks ago), was in preparation for the summer maneuvers in Northern New York, for which the local troop will entrain August 4.

Tension Slackens In Balkan Area

Belgrade Dispatch Says Hungary And Bulgaria Are Subsiding

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LONDON, July 1—The London Evening Standard reported today that the members of the Rumanian cabinet met last night to arrange transfer of the government from Bucharest to the foothills of Western Rumania if necessary.

This account said troops of General Florescu, who ignored the Rumanian government's order to retire, were still battling the Russians along the Pruth river.

The London Daily Mail reported from Bucharest that it learned King Carol made a direct appeal to Premier Mussolini for aid in resisting any Hungarian or Bulgarian demands.

The London Daily Express, in a Belgrade dispatch, said tension in the Balkans was slackening as it became evident neither Hungary nor Bulgaria was willing to take the risk of trying to snatch their former territories from Rumania without consent of Berlin or Rome.

Reports Franklin Murder Mystery Has Been Solved

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 1.—District Attorney Maurice P. Breene has announced solution of a five-months-old, pointless murder, with the arrest and purported confession of a colored man in whom whisky aroused an uncontrollable desire to kill.

The confession, the district attorney said, was given by Henry Nicholson, and ended an investigation in which more than 200 residents of Franklin's third ward were questioned in an attempt to obtain a clue to the murder last February of Stanley Kopchak, 58.

Kopchak was found in melting snow, near death in a tank field. His neck had been slashed by he knife of an assailant who, the night before, jumped upon him in the shadow of an oil tank.

Nicholson admitted, Breene quoted him as saying, that he had drunk almost two quarts of whisky during the day. "I was walking home across the field," the confession quoted the normally mild colored man, "when I saw him walking, too. I got my knife out and cut him. I just couldn't keep from doing it. I didn't know him."

Nicholson was among those questioned, the district attorney said, because it was known that drink transformed him from his usual easy-going manners to a dangerous man. He moved here about eight years ago from Monessen.

DIALOGUE IN A GARDEN

Mary—I'm glad you caught the four-forty-four. It's so nice here in the garden. You can forget all about wars and politics and money.

John—That's just how I feel. Everything looks so scary everywhere in the world, but here we've got a beautiful little world of our own and we don't need to think about all this trouble. Let's take this path down to the delphiniums.

Mary—Isn't that a heavenly blue! Those are the biggest spikes our delphiniums ever had.

John—Great! (He stops to examine one of the flowers; puts on his glasses and looks at the blossom long and intently.)

Mary—What's the matter? Are the red spiders on them again?

John—No it isn't that. I was just thinking about this little spur on the flower. That's why the German's call the delphinium "hennenspuren," or hen-spur.

Mary—Yes? But what of it?

John—Well, I hadn't thought of it until the last few weeks but you know the Germans make words that way, like "hand shoe" for glove. They just put two or three things together to make up a word. They pile up sentences that way, too. You remember Mark Twain saying that they made a sentence as if they were stuffing things into a carpet bag. Now about the Germans—.

Mary—I think that compost I put in last year helped them a lot.

John—(startled) The Germans?

Mary—No—the delphinium, of course.

John—Well, as I was going to say, German etymology shows they are the most literal people in the world. But they are also romantic. That is essentially a juvenile combination.

Mary—That reminds me; I forgot to tell you that Junior has lost his dental brace again.

John—Yes? Well, take Junior for instance. Do you remember when he was just learning to talk he built up words just like the Germans. You know—that way he had of calling a brush a 'hair-broom,' when he was just learning to talk. It is essentially an infantile trait. But this literalness goes with the scientific mind. It was inevitable that they should become a great scientific people. Infantile emotions—self pity, tantrums, romantic urges—are dangerous when combined with technical and organizing capacity. Now—

Mary—Really, John, they are awfully clever.

John—The Germans?

Mary—No, these delphiniums, the way they grow their flowers. Look here. Here's a spike at least nine inches long. See how the full bloom is first on the bottom of the spike and climbs from the bottom up. That's because the blooms at the bottom would get no sun if it started blooming from the top down.

John — They're pretty darned smart aren't they? Anyway, it's great to have a hideout like this where we can forget this terrible war and how most folks seem to feel, and all the rest of it. Where's that old smock of mine? I'm going to tear into these weeds.

Mary—Over on that bench there. I'm going to tie up this wistaria.

John — (singing, "hi-de-dow-de-diddle-dee-dum-dum," weeding as he sings.) This daylight saving is great stuff, get all this nice sunlight—Hey! Mary come here!

Mary—What is it now?

John—Look at that weed. If that isn't a perfect imitation of a delphinium. I'm a Chinaman. They sneaked in here, disguised like delphiniums the minute we did that transplanting. It's the principle of protective form and coloring in nature; if they look just like a delphinium there will be less of a chance of their being pulled up. Now there's your Trojan horse and your Fifth Column in the garden.

Mary—John, dear, I'm sick of your Trojan horses and your Fifth Columns. There ought to be a law, against those words. The columnists and the politicians work them to death. You get a new word every once in a while and you make the mistake of thinking you've got something when you haven't. When I get a new flower, I know I've got something.

John—Yes, Mary, and I was saying—

Mary—And just one thing more.

John—Yes?

Mary—Don't forget!

John—Don't forget what?

Mary—Me.

Auto Industry Employs Estimated 6,500,000 Men

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich.—A composite picture of what the typical automobile worker is like will become available very soon when Automobile Facts and Figures, statistical yearbook of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, presents a survey of the characteristics of workers in the industry.

The typical motor plant worker is a man of responsibility—mature and married, supporting dependents and possessing a good employment record. He comes from either Michigan or the surrounding tier of states, Ohio, Indiana, Illionis and Wisconsin. His weekly pay check averaged $31.20 in 1939, which incidentally bought more goods and services than at any time in the history of the industry.

A sizable number of skilled men is found in the automobile industry, the survey brings out. The men employed as inspectors, welders in tool and die work, in skilled maintenance and in metal finishing jobs comprise more than one fourth of the total factory personnel.

Rely on Older Men

Reliance upon older men who have experience in automobile factory work is shown with seven out of every ten workers over 30 years of age, and four out of ten over 40 years. Mome than half the men have been employed in the industry for five or more years and 23 percent have ten years or more experience.

Formal education up to the eighth grade and beyond is possessed by all but seven per cent of the working force. Thirty per cent of the men have high school or college educations.

Three fourths of the motor workers are married and 69 per cent have one or more dependents. The middle western states were the birthplace of 64 per cent of them with 10 per cent coming "from southern states and 9 per cent from other parts of the country. The proportion coming from Canada and other foreign countries is 16½ per cent.

Upon the work of these motor factory employes revolves a vast economy embracing sales and servicing of motor vehicles construction and maintenance of highways, supplying of motor fuel, commercial operation of cars, and trucks. The total employment, direct and indirect, which is attributable to motor transport is 6,500,000 accordiig to a breakdown in the forthcoming statistical volume.

Bull Rider To Visit New Castle

Ted Terry From Idaho Riding Bull To New York City And World's Fair

Ted Terry, 29-year old son of the west, will be in New Castle early Tuesday morning astride his famous 1,600 pound bull "Hitler." The New York World's fair is the destination of the young man.

Terry left Ketchum, Idaho on September 15, 1937. He does not travel in the winter time. The mileage covered each day is between 10 and 12 miles. A pack horse called Sally and a dog named Skipper are included in the retinue.

At the present time Terry and his famous bull are stopping with Louis Grigg, of Hillsville. Terry is writing a book of his adventures. He is not sponsored by any one and is carrying 600 pounds of mail.

The bull "Hitler" eats a bushel of oats each day. He wears out a set of steel shoes every 250 miles. No serious accidents have been encountered as yet, according to the cowpuncher. The motorists are very respectful of my outfit.

The entire trip to the gate of the New York Fair will be close to 3,000 miles. Terry is the originator of the Bull Mail Stamp. As far as is known Terry is the only man to ever attempt a trip of this nature. He has a berth awaiting him at the World's Fair.

Hs is a very likeable chap and seems to be getting a big kick out of his strange adventure.

Willkie Returns To New York City

Completes Week- End Cruise—To Prepare For Election Campaign

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 1.—Refreshed after a week-end of cruising on Publisher Roy W. Howard's yacht Jamaroy, Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee for president, returns to New York today to lay the groundwork for a fighting election campaign.

One of Willkie's first acts after tht yacht docks some time this morning in New York's East river will be to submit his resignation as president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation. A press conference at his office at 20 Pine street in the financial section also was scheduled.

Two urgent problems faced Willkie as he returned from his arduous week of work at the Republican National convention at Philadelphia. One was the necessity of restoring harmony to the badly rent New York State committee. The other was the question of naming a national chairman.

Bad feeling still exists among New York committee members over the ousting of Kenneth F. Simpson as national committeeman because of his opposition to the presidential candidacy of Thomas E. Dewey. Simpson issued a statement predicting victory for Willkie along with substantial G.O.P. gains in congress in the election.

Willkie was scheduled to meet with the National Advisory committee on F.H.T. question of the national chairman on Wednesday. Many political observers felt John D. M. Hamilton would continue in the post.

Squirrel Wins In Battle With Birds

Early Saturday afternoon residents of the 600 block of East Washington street, were interested in the antics of a young squirrel and some house sparrows.

The squirrel ran across the street, climbed a pole, then started along a cable wire, when suddenly, as if from nowhere, half a dozen sparrows perched themselves on the wire directly in the little animal's path. The latter stopped, and "swished" his plumy tail as if in anger, then dashed forward, at which the birds gave way. They flew further on to block the squirrel's progress by squatting on the wire, with added reinforcements, only to be again scattered by the determined animal.

Three In Akron Family Drown

Tragedy Occurs At Portage Lakes—Fourth Member Of Family Rescued

AKRON, O., July 1.—Three of an Akron family of four, the father, mother and young son, were drowned at the near-by Portage Lakes Sunday and the other son was rescued along with two other persons when a motor boat capsized in East Reservoir.

Loren W. Ward, 34, operator of a long distance trucking concern here, his wife, Ada, 31, and their son, Robert, 6, all of 1121 Big Falls avenue, lost their lives.

Their other son, Donald, 12 owed his life to George Burkhart of Long Lake, who dived in after the boy.

The owner and driver of the 17-foot inboard craft which capsized, B. C. Hartline of 52 W. South street, Akron, was rescued with his wife by members of the Coventry Township department.

Hartline was struck by the boat's propeller and slightly injured.

Witnesses said that the 1940 model speedboat had slowed down to follow a motor boat lane in the reservoir when it apparently went out of control, seemed to stand on its stern and then overturned, spilling the victims into the lake.

Firemen and deputy sheriffs recovered the body of Robert Ward after an hour with grapplers. An hour later they found his mother and in another hour the father's body was taken ashore.

Donald was taken to Children's Hospital by relatives and treated for shock.

LOANS WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.97 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.75 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.97 a month for eighteen months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds, no salary or wage assignment. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you, phone or visit us for further information. No obligation.

Speedy Action By Japan Seen

Indication Japan May Act With Stunning Speed In East Asia

(International News Service)

TOKYO, July 1—A strong indication that Japan may act with stunning speed to attain her objectives in East Asia was published by the newspaper Nichi Nichi today

The paper said Japanese war office leaders and 24 generals agreed the army would adopt unanimously an "attitude as strong as iron and rush for its objectives in the present golden opportunity."

(Editor's note: With trouble apparently imminent between the Japanese and British at Hong Kong, the United States liner President Coolidge returned to the British Crown colony after sailing for Manila and was standing by for further orders. It was believed the liner would evacuate Americans if necessary)

Nichi Nichi said the Japanese navy also is determined to "dispel rumors" that it advocates avoidance of friction with Britain or the United States in construction of a "new order" in East Asia.

All diplomatic embassies and ministries in Berlin received a circular note from the German foreign office containing the request.

Consular offices will continue to function in the four countries which are now under German control. Diplomatic affairs, however, will be handled through the missions in Berlin.

Reds Win Two From Chicago

Cincinnati Looks Part Of Real Champs In Winning Twin Bill

B ED KIELY
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 1.—Cincinnati's high-geared pitching staff stood out as the main theme on the National League pennant picture today with the clubs girding themselves for the torrid, tel-tale "stretch" months to come.

Yesterday the Reds gave a championship performance on their home lot by trouncing the Chicago Cubs in both sides of a double-header, 7 to 4 and 7 to 6. Bucky Walters became the first National League flinger to garner ten victories with his triumph in the opener, even though it took him five attempts to do so. Previously, he had won nine straight contests.

The double win enabled the Rhinelanders to pick up a full game on their pressing rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, who halved a twin-bill with the Boston Bees.

Dodgers-Bees Split

Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons racked up his seventh win of the year and his 199th major league victory by setting the Bees down in 9 to 2 style in the opener. In the nightcap, however, the Bees found Luke Hamlin's famed 'gopher' ball a bit tasty and whacked out a 7 to 2 decision.

The New York Giants, who had hoped to gain ground in the race while playing the lowly Philadelphia Phillies, were fortunate in gaining an even-Stephen break in a two-ply contest. The Terrymen won the nightcap, 7 to 3, after the Phils captured the opener, 7 to 4. The Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals remained in a tie for fifth and sixth places in the standings after taking turns shutting out one another at Forbes Field. The Cards won the first fracas, 1 to 0 and the Pirates took the second foray, 2 to 0.

Red Sox Win

After dropping ten of their last 13 starts, the Boston Red Sox perked up with a double victory over the Washington Senators to gain some lost ground in the American league battle. The Sox had to call upon extra base artillery to eke out 6 to 5 and 5 to 4 decisions.

The Cleveland Indians squared two games with the Chicago White Sox, the tribe taking the first game, 7 to 5, with Al Smith hurling his ninth win of the season, and the White Sox grabbing the afterpiece, 3 to 1.

New York beat Philadelphia 4 to 3 in the opener of their twinbill, but the Athletics evened the score with a 3 to 2 ten-inning margin in nightcap. The St. Louis Browns won a 7 to 6 eleven-inning contest from the Detroit Tigers and the Bengals marched off with a 10 to 1 triumph in the nightcap which was halted at the end of the seventh by agreement.

Dempsey And Wrestler Will Battle Tonight

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., July 1.—The long awaited, much discussed and entirely puzzling bout between Jack Dempsey and Clarence ("Cowboy") Luttrell, rough and tumble Texas wrestler, comes up for exhibition tonight in Atlanta's Southern Association baseball park.

If the prophets of profit are correct, some 20,000 persons will pay in the neighborhood of $30,000 to see the affair.

To date, no one has properly explained how the bout happened to be arranged, how the principals were influenced to engage in it, or why it is being held. But whatever the reason for the feature, it undeniably holds interesting possibilities. The scheduled distance is ten rounds, but Dempsey himself admits that distance is beyond him.

"I'll knock him out in two rounds," the old Manassa Mauler predicted, adding, "I'll have to; I can't go much beyond that."

Bass Season Is Open In State

High, Muddy Water, Will Probably Baffle Efforts Of Some Fishermen

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1.—Several species of game fish were thrown on the defensive today as Pennsylvania anglers armed with rod and creel invaded their finny haunts.

High muddy water, however, was expected to stave off early successes against bass, wall-eyed pike, crappie and pike. The zero hour was at 12:01 a. m. EST today.

Although week-end rains caused rising waters, more favorable conditions were expected for the July 4th holiday.

Limits for the game fish remain the same as last year, the game commission said, and pointed out the "take" for all species was 25.

The daily limit for black bass is six and they must be nine inches long. There is no size limit on crappie, white bass and strawberry bass but anglers are allowed only 15 a day.

The creel limit is 15 for rock or goggle-eyed bass which may be taken at any time.

The season also opens for wall-eyed pike, or Susquehanna salmon, and pike. The daily limit on salmon is six and on pike eight both with a minimum size of 12 inches.

Sports World Ramblings

Sports spray—Frank "Tarzan" Crisci, the ex-New Castle High-Western Reserve grid star, is training a la "Red" Grange in preparation for the coming pig pelt parade. After graduating, Crisci signed a contract to play with the famous Chicago Bears. He soon hopped on an ice wagon and will remain there until the Bears gather for fall sessions. . . .

Probably through force of habit, Connie Mack, the grand old man of baseball, has crashed through with another prediction. Aside from telling the sports world that the Yanks can't possibly win the current American League banner, Mack predicts that the champs will be lucky to finish in the first division. He now gives Cleveland a slight edge in the bauble chase. . . .

Kicked around like a football, "Buck" Newsom, long right hander of the Detroit Tigers, is on his way to one of his best seasons. He teed-off with the Dodgers. Next he was in a Jersey City uniform. Then back to Macon where he started. Little Rock was the next stop, followed by Chicago, Albany, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Washington, Boston and Detroit. . . .

A hard working youth, Newsom stuck it out, correcting every mistake. Consequently, his diligence and perseverance are paying off. Today, he is the first major leaguer to cop 10 straights. He dropped his opener to the Browns and hasn't lost since. The way he is pegging, he stands an excellent chance of scoring 25 wins. . . .

Diamond odds and ends:—Rip Russell, Cub first sacker, has a sweet tooth for Brooklyn pitching. His first three homers of 1939 were socked against Dodger pitching. . . . Roy Cullenbine, Detroit free agent now playing with the Browns, likes to bat against Bobby Feller. Last year, Cullenbine rapped out three homers, two of them in the same game, against the Cleveland star. . . .

Bits of this and that:—Grid note: Whit Baker is the only member of Cornell's all-conquering 1939 grid team lost by graduation. . . . Tony Galento says he will uncover a new blow in his coming scrap with Max Baer. Roly-Poly calls it a "jumbo punch"! . . . Joe Louis is seriously thinking of retiring in September and blossoming forth as a hotel owner and golf course-riding academy operator. . . .

Baer Favored Over Galento

Experts Pick Former Heavyweight Champion To Defeat Tony Galento Tuesday

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 1.—On the eve of another of his semi-annual comebacks, Max Baer today was a staunch 9 to 5 under-dog for his 15-round engagement with two-ton Tarzen Galento tomorrow night, as the two sterling contenders for the chance to be knocked out again by Joe Louis wound-up their alleged training. Baer, in fact, was among the very few who would audibly pick Baer to win this one or even go the limit. It is a strange state of affairs, all things considered.

They are within a few months of each other's age, according to the records, both have lived carefree lives paying little heed to the copy book rules on deportment for athletes, and both hit with tremendous authority. But in the appearance Baer should be able to whip a roomful of Galentos. The former heavyweight champion is down to within a few pounds of his best fighting weight and still has a physique second to none ever hauled into a ring.

End Training

However, everybody is convinced that his fortitude under fire will desert him, as usual, and that soon thereafter Galento, who has plenty of heart and wild abandon, will go on to the win.

They finished their workouts yesterday with their usual clowning, Galento boxing and talking four rounds at his Summit, N. J., camp and Baer going two equally vociferous heats at Pompton Lakes, N. J. Baer looked better than he has at any time in the last couple of years and Galento looked even worse than he usually does, all of which may or may not be significant.

Houk, 600 Orchard avenue, this city.

Rev. Clarence E. Houk of New Concord, O., an uncle of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony, with Rev. P. B. Logan of Farrell assisting. An unusual feature of the ceremony was the fact that Rev. Houk had also officiated at the marriage of the bridegroom's parents, his brother, Paul, and his sister, Mrs. Ralph Shanor. The wedding was attended by 250 relatives and friends.

Nuptial music preceded the ceremony, with Harold Reese being the pianist. Other features were a violin solo by Mrs. Duane Armstrong and three lovely vocal selections, "Because", "Beloved" and "At Dawning", by Mrs. Virgil Hillman.

For her wedding the bride chose a lovely gown of white mousseline de soie, fashioned with a finger tip veil of tulle and lace, and carried a bridal bouquet. Her sister, Miss Evelyn Turner, was maid of honor and wore a pretty gown of cornflower blue marquisette and a matching picture hat. Little Nancy Reese was the flower girl.

Albert Howells of Orchard avenue served the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were Paul Houk and Ralph Shanor of this city.

The bride's mother appeared in a sheer rose beige gown, and Mrs. Houk was attired in an ashes of roses mesh gown.

After a congratulatory period the bridal party and 50 guests motored to a Kinsman, O., dining room for a wedding dinner.

They departed on a trip to the New England states and Philadelphia, and for traveling the bride chose a black and white sheer ensemble. They will reside until September at the Houk home.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEKALL

Here we are starting into July . . . and so far summer has been something that we haven't had. Let's hope that July will treat us with a gift and that gift we hope will be warm weather.

* * *

Requests come from far and wide . . . some are common while others are on the side of difficulty . . . the one we are going to give you today is this. A young lady of town would like to take up the HARP. Now if anyone has any connections to said instrument would they be kind enough to write this column . . . we in turn will pass along the information.

* * *

Here is a dog and the Fourth of July would be a good time to give a small boy or girl a dog . . . since fireworks are taboo in Pennsylvania.

Randall Park, Edinburg . . . a female Red Spitz one and a half years old, will make a fine pet for a small child.

Since the holes in East Washington street have been filled up to a certain point the driving is not quite so bad. Let's hope that someday all main streets in New Castle will be smooth from curb to curb.

* * *

A paper was found containing information about the monument on the diamond . . . when it was purchased and the conditions that made it possible for New Castle to obtain it. Just when this paper was printed we can't say . . . but it did say within the article that the monument was originally made for Youngstown but they couldn't pay for it so New Castle came to their aid and the monument was brought over here. It's very interesting to look back over time and see just how things happened.

* * *

Although the weather has been wet . . . the golfers have been working like mad to get their scores down to a new low. And surprise . . . they have succeeded in many cases. So here's to better weather and better golf scores.

* * *

The classified ads are great little helpers . . . they get into every home and tell their story quickly and with great force . . . try one today.

Market Eases Off Moderately In Apathetic Trading To Start New Week

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 1.—The stock market eased moderately in apathetic trading today.

Aviation shares were among the weakest, with United Aircraft, United Air Lines and American Air Lines each dropping more than a point. Douglas was down almost as much.

Losses in the steel section ran to almost a point in U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Bethlehem slipped fractionally.

General Motors, Westinghouse Electric and Johns-Manville each gave up about a point. Smaller declines were shown by Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide, American Smelting, International Nickel, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Standard Oil of N. J., Consolidated Edison and American Tobacco "B."

A few stocks bucked the downward trend for minor gains. Included were Montgomery Ward, Air Reduction, Borden, Standard Oil of California and American Telephone.

SOLDIER FINDS ROMANTIC NOTE AFTER 23 YEARS

(International News Service)

LONDON — Some twenty-three years ago, romantically minded, eighteen-year-old London tailoress Mabel Roderick slipped a note inside the pocket of an Army tunic she was sewing.

The note asked the soldier who wore the tunic to write to the girl who made it.

"It's a silly sort of thing to do," laughed Mabel to her friends. "Still . . . you never know."

And last month Mabel, much to her surprise ,received a reply.

George Norris, aged twenty, of the British Royal Corps of Signals, found the note in his tunic pocket.

Mabel wrote her letter in 1917. In the meantime, the young tailoress has become Mrs. Mabel Young.

She is now forty-one and has a daughter aged twelve.

"The joke's on both of us," said George. "Of course, I thought I was going to meet a young girl."

AGAINST RECLAMATION

(International News Service)

LANDER, Wyo.—Governor Nels H. Smith of Wyoming does not want any more land reclamation projects. He told the Wyoming Stock Growers Association at their convention here that much of the land that has been reclaimed for farming would be better adapted to grazing of cattle and sheep and that additional reclamation would cripple the state's livestock industry.

Aerial Combat Kindergarten

Inside a full-scale cutaway model of a twin-motored plane, cadets at Randolph Field, Tex., "West Point of the Air," are shown how to handle flight controls before going aloft. Uncle Sam's new defense program calls for training 7,000 of these pilots annually for the Army Air Corps.

CUTWORMS

HARRISBURG.— Cutworms normally are inhabitants of sod land and consequently are found feeding upon vegetables planted on ground which previously had been in sod for a number of years. They also are abundant in gardens rich in humus. If possible, avoid planting vegetables, such as tomatoes, egg plants and pepper, in land just previously in sod. Late fall or early spring plowing reduces or destroys numbers of over-wintering larvae in the ground. It also is advantageous to allow poultry to run in gardens which are freshly plowed or dug.

HOW ARMISTICE TERMS EXPAND COLONIAL ITALY

At U. S. West Point of the Air

Seven thousand pilots annually is the goal of the army air corps. Nearly 500 pilots-to-be now are in training at Randolph Field, Texas, Uncle Sam's West Point of the Air. They have completed elementary flight training at civilian schools and will spend ten weeks at Randolph Field, Texas, and a final ten at the advanced flying school, Kelly Field, after which they will join the regular army squadrons.

Simple Rules Telling How To Display Flag

Simple rules for display of the Stars and Stripes on the Fourth, or at any other time are given in the following:

When the flag is not flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether inside or outside. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the field should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left. When displayed in a window, the blue field should be to the left of the observer in the street.

For Street Display

When displayed over the middle of the street, the flag should be suspended vertically, with the field to the north in an East-West street, or to the East in a North-South street.

When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope, extending from the house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, it should hang vertically, with the field toward the street.

When displayed from a staff, projecting horizontally or at an angle, the field should go to the peak of the staff.

When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the American Flag should be on the flag's right, the observer's left, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

Bunting Urged

The flag should not be festooned over doorways, fastened into a rosette or used as draping. For decorative purposes, bunting should be used, with blue at the top.

When displayed from the same staff with state or city flags or pennants of societies, the American Flag should always be at the peak. When other flags or pennants are grouped with the flag, the American Flag should be at the center, or at the highest point.

Host Of Tourists See State Capitol

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1—Although July 1 marks the beginning of the heaviest tourist visitation at the capitol in Harrisburg, June has been an exceptionally busy month, the State Department of Commerce reports. With increased American travel this year it is expected that the number of visitors will increase considerably, Richard P. Brown, secretary of the department, said today.

Guides showed approximately 4,857 persons through the capitol during the first two weeks in June. Many persons wandered through without joining guide parties or registering in the guide office.

Chicago Woman Killed In Elevator

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 1—Mrs. Florence Stevens, 24 year old wife of the Chicago White Sox batting practice pitcher, was killed in a hotel elevator Saturday, after her son Tommy, 3½ years old, pushed the starting lever unexpectedly.

Mrs. Stevens, thrown forward in the elevator car when it started, was caught between the cage and the floor entrance to the shaft. The regular operator had stepped from the car momentarily, leaving Mrs. Stevens and her son alone.

The boy was unhurt.

The father, Thomas Stevens, had just left the South Side hotel before the fatal accident.

All Good Books Not Best Sellers

Local Library Purchases Between 80 And 90 Per Cent Of All Books Printed

While your local library has a limited book budget, it does purchase between 80 and 90 percent of the new books, both fiction and non-fiction. Some of these are in the library long before they enter the best-seller lists.

Other books which by their very nature will never be best-sellers, must also be purchased. It should be remembered that being included in these lists does not necessarily constitute a recommendation for a book.

Here are a few new books that are, according to Miss Alice Sterling, librarian, worth considering:

"The People Talk" — Benjamin Appel.

"America Cooks"—Cora, Rose and Bob Brown.

"American Tel and Tel"—Horace Coon.

"More House For Your Money"—Elizabeth Gordon.

"Statesmen of the Lost Cause"—B. J. Hendrick.

"We Shall Live Again"—Maurice G. Hindus.

"A Smattering of Ignorance"—Oscar Levant.

"Their Future Is Now"—E. M. Ligon.

"Birds In the Garden"—Margaret McKenny.

Improvement Of Rural Mail Boxes Will Be Requested

In the Postal Bulletin of June 27, received by Postmaster William R. Hanna of the local office, it is stated that the Post Office Department has designated the week beginning August 1, 1940, as "Rural Mail Box Improvement Week". The bulletin further adds that "unsightly rural mail boxes detract from the natural scenic beauty along highways, and are not a credit to the owners of attractive homes served through the boxes. Rural boxes which are not properly erected, or which are not in good serviceable condition, retard the delivery of mail and expose it to damage from the elements. Boxes, regardless of the type, should, of course, be of such design, and in such condition, that there will be no likelihood of the carrier injuring his hands when serving them."

Postmasters are directed to acquaint the patrons of the rural delivery service with these facts, and instruct rural mail carriers to lend full co-operation to the end of meeting the wishes of the department, that their mail box equipment be improved.
